DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-8, 13-17, 19, 21, 23-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Patent 2004/0208314 to Patariu et al.(hereinafter Patariu).
3. Regarding Claim 1, 25-27, Patariu discloses the single DES engine operable to provide security processing, the single DES engine employing an intermediate result at a data output of the single DES engine, to the single DES engine further comprising an input node adapted to selectively process input data from a data input of the security processing circuit during a first DES processing operation, and subsequently to process the intermediate result data from the data output during a second and third DES processing operation see Par. 0034 & Par. 00029 & Par. 0036; a select switch coupled to the data input of data processing circuit, the data output and input node of single DES engine, the select switch adapted to selectively couple one of the data input and the intermediate result of the input node of single DES engine see Par. 0036 & Fig.2 item 210 & 212; a set of cipher keys selectively coupled to the single DES engine, operable to select and load different cipher key associated with each DES processing operation to the single DES engine during three DES processing operations of 3DES processing see Fig. 2 item 212 & Par. 0032.

4. Regarding Claim 2, Patariu discloses the select switch is operable to selectively couple one of data input and intermediate result to single DES engine according to the state of selection see Par. 0040.
5. Regarding Claim 3, Patariu discloses the multiplexor see Fig. 2 item 210.
6. Regarding Claim 4-5, Patariu discloses the three different key and key being selected for each round see Par. 0046.
7. Regarding Claim 6, Patariu discloses the multiplexor residing between set of keys and single DES machine see Fig. 2 item 212.
8. Regarding Claim 7, Patariu discloses the FIFO and multiplexors which inherently run on clock cycles see Fig. 2.
9. Regarding Claim 8, Patariu discloses the 3DES processing completed in three single DES operations see Par. 0032.
10. Regarding Claim 13, Patariu discloses the segmentation of outputted data see Fig. 3.

11. Regarding Claim 14-17, 21, Patariu discloses the network interface device to selectively encrypt data outgoing to network see Par. 0027-0028 & Fig. 5 item 508 & 502.
12. Regarding Claim 19, Patariu discloses the bus interface adapted to transfer data see Fig. 5 item 506; media access control system to transfer data to and from the network see 508a & 508b; the single DES engine employing an intermediate result at a data output of the single DES engine, to the single DES engine further comprising an input node adapted to selectively process input data from a data input of the security processing circuit during a first DES processing operation, and subsequently to process the intermediate result data from the data output during a second and third DES processing operation see Par. 0034 & Par. 00029 & Par. 0036.
13. Regarding Claim 23, Patariu discloses the transferring data between the network interface device and host system see Fig. 5 item 506; transferring data between network interface and the network see item 508a; obtaining security information associated with outgoing data see Par. 0068; storing the outgoing data from the bus interface see Fig. 1 item 104; selectively performing security operation and storing the outgoing data see Fig. 1 item 108, 110; transferring the output data onto the network interface device and further transferring onto the network see Fig. 5 item 506, 508a.
14. Regarding Claim 24, Patariu discloses the selectively encrypting the data see Par. 0017.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

15. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

16. Claim 18, 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent 2004/0208314 to Patariu et al.(hereinafter Patariu) in view of US Patent 2003/0169877 to Liu et al.(hereinafter Liu).

17. Regarding Claim 18, 22, Patariu does not disclose the IPsec circuit to provide for authentication, encryption and decryption functions. However, Liu discloses the authentication, encryption and decryption function see Fig. 2B. It would be obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include the authentication, encryption and decryption function in the invention of Patariu in order to provide for secure transmissions over network.

18. Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent 2004/0208314 to Patariu et al.(hereinafter Patariu) in view of US Patent 6874054 to Clayton et al.(hereinafter Clayton).

19. Regarding Claim 20, Patariu does not disclose the PCI-X bus interface. However, Clayton discloses the PCI-X bus interface see Col 4 Ln 29-41. It would be obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include PCI-X bus interface in the invention of Patariu in order to provide for interface on an ASIC as taught in Clayton see Col 4 Ln 29-41.

Allowable Subject Matter

20. Claims 9-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
